DWR, UC to Urge Californians to Halt Outdoor Watering After Rain

The drought isn't over -- we must conserve

SACRAMENTO – At a home in the residential neighborhood of Curtis Park, officials with the California Department of Water Resources and the University of California will discuss how recent precipitation across much of California has eliminated the need for outdoor watering for at least a couple of weeks.

A local resident will demonstrate how homeowners can shut off their sprinklers and conserve water outdoors.

WHO:

California Department of Water Resources Director Mark Cowin
UC Cooperative Extension Advisor Chuck Ingels
Regional Water Authority Water Efficiency Program Manager Amy Marie Talbot
Homeowner and Water Forum Executive Director Tom Gohring

WHAT:

Press event and demonstration of sprinkler system shutdown.

WHEN:

Thursday, March 6, 2014
11 a.m. – rain or shine

WHERE:

2931 Highland Avenue, Sacramento
(On Highland Avenue between 4th Avenue and Marshall Way, south of Sierra 2 Center in Curtis Park)
