Re Stakeholder Comments on AB 1881

Via Email

Dear Ms. Colvin,

As a landscape architect and irrigation consultant, I applaud the desire to strengthen the earlier AB325 State Model Ordinance. However, AB 1881, in its current form of revision, I believe is flawed and does not consider many practical aspects needed for thoughtful implementation.

I do support the comments, in their entirety, made by the American Society of Irrigation Consultants (ASIC) that help clarify necessary changes to the Model Ordinance in order to practically implement this legislation.

Broaden the stakeholder base and listen to the opinions of industry leaders who share a common goal of better irrigation design and water allocation, but not to a point of implementing impractical and burdensome legislation.

Sincerely,
