All,

I wanted to share at least one thought on the table- #1 consumptive use fraction should include cover crop ET (when used)

This water is part of the irrigation demand in growing the crop (and typically the irrigation system would be designed to irrigate the both crops) and should be taken out of other agronomic uses like cooling or frost protection-

This is not, as noted at the meeting double cropping or inter-cropping- those are much different in their intent and application
